About Mandla Health

Mandla Health was conceived at a medical sciences laboratory bench, where frustrations over the public health sector were shared. Time was spent reflecting on how we can improve doctor's interaction with patients whilst simultaneously empowering patients with information about their health conditions, tools to monitor their health as well as providing a mechanism of improving their medication management. As existing and budding medical professionals, we developed Mandla Health to tackle these problems. We are passionate about the health of South Africans, particular our underserved communities. Mandla is the community's conduit to strength in health.
